

Toronto.com > Movies > TIFF > Feasts of the fest: A film-goers guide to best-supporting meal

Feasts of the fest: A film-goers guide to best-supporting meal

Like Esther J Garnick and 2 others like this.

By Leanne Delap
Special to the Star
Sep 06, 2011

TOOLBAR

- Add to Favourites
- Report An Error
- Email a friend
- Print-friendly view

TIFF is time of renewal and reinvention for Toronto's entertainment outlets. Chefs who prep goodies for pampered celebrity palates also take the opportunity to woo us regular joes with fancy new offerings.

Brassaii

461 King St. W., 416-598-4730, brassaii.com

Brassaii is booked for a whack of big-money private parties at the beginning of the festival, says owner Jordan Fogler, but some of the special stuff created for A-listers will be offered to low-and-no-wattage TIFF festers later in the week. Look for fried oysters with cucumber relish, more of the ubiquitous grilled cheeses (this time with truffled mayo), chickpea/ricotta bruschetta, chocolate lollipops and another '50s fave, mini banana tartlets.